

The much-vaunted utility of merging news-- print, network and cable television, the Internet--has led, not to more voices and better coverage, but less and more homogenous coverage.

I urge you to reject the industry line--from rich executives and money-handlers--and keep the ban on cross-ownership.

TV news, print news, radio news...all controlled by single companies? And that's OK? ...